Journey in Tibet

Dr. Pieter du Toit

Dr. Pieter du Toit was born in the Free State and qualified in 1963 as physician at the University of Pretoria. After serving in mission hospitals, he specialized as anaesthetist, and from 1975 to 1987 he was attached to the University of the Free State as professor in the Department of Medicine. He then practiced privately and left the country temporarily in 1994 to practice medicine in Kkesh Riyadh Saudi Arabia for 11 years. He and his wife, Louisa, returned then to South Africa and settled in Still Bay, from where he performed medical services until 2018.

Pieter and Louisa travelled to Tibet in the winter of 2000, a country which remained unknown in the West for almost 19 centuries. The Lhasa mountain fortress, also known as the "lost city", was only set foot on by westerners in 1980. Pieter is an avid photographer and his photo collection was recently digitized to share those taken in Tibet with the U3A audience. The talk is in Afrikaans and English.
